The Early Years

Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus were born just a few years apart in the early 1930s. Palmer grew up in Latrobe, Pennsylvania, while Nicklaus was raised in Columbus, Ohio. Both men showed a talent for golf at a young age, and they quickly became two of the top amateur players in the country.

In 1954, Palmer won the US Amateur Championship. Nicklaus followed suit two years later, winning the same tournament in 1956. The two men were now considered to be the best young golfers in the world.

The PGA Tour

Palmer and Nicklaus turned professional in 1958 and 1962, respectively. They quickly became two of the most dominant players on the PGA Tour. Palmer won his first major championship, the Masters Tournament, in 1958. Nicklaus won his first major, the US Open, in 1962.

Over the next two decades, Palmer and Nicklaus were engaged in a fierce rivalry that would come to define golf. They battled each other for major championships, PGA Tour victories, and world rankings. Palmer won seven major championships and 62 PGA Tour events. Nicklaus won 18 major championships and 73 PGA Tour events.

The Masters

The Masters Tournament was always a special event for Palmer and Nicklaus. Palmer won the tournament four times, in 1958, 1960, 1962, and 1964. Nicklaus won the tournament six times, in 1963, 1965, 1966, 1972, 1975, and 1986.

The 1960 Masters Tournament was one of the most memorable moments in golf history. Palmer and Nicklaus were tied going into the final round. Palmer shot a 69 to win the tournament by one stroke. It was a victory that cemented Palmer's status as one of the greatest golfers of all time.

The US Open

The US Open is another major championship that Palmer and Nicklaus often battled for. Palmer won the tournament four times, in 1960, 1962, 1963, and 1973. Nicklaus won the tournament four times, in 1962, 1967, 1972, and 1980.

The 1973 US Open was one of the most dramatic moments in golf history. Palmer and Nicklaus were tied going into the final round. Nicklaus shot a 68 to win the tournament by one stroke. It was a victory that gave Nicklaus his third US Open title and made him the leading winner of the tournament at the time.

The British Open

The British Open is the oldest and most prestigious golf tournament in the world. Palmer won the tournament twice, in 1961 and 1962. Nicklaus won the tournament three times, in 1970, 1978, and 1993.

The 1970 British Open was one of the most memorable moments in golf history. Nicklaus shot a final-round 69 to win the tournament by five strokes. It was a victory that gave Nicklaus his first British Open title and made him the first player to win all four major championships.

The Rivalry

The rivalry between Palmer and Nicklaus was one of the greatest in sports history. The two men were not only great golfers, but they were also great friends. They respected each other's game and they always competed with the utmost sportsmanship.
